Change in the City's Business License Policy

Effective January 1, 2008,
a new business license policy goes into effect at the City of Tucson.

If you currently have both a business privilege (sales tax) license and an occupational license, you will only renew your business privilege (sales tax) license by paying a $45 annual renewal fee that is due January 1 and delinquent the last business day of January.
Your occupational license will be cancelled effective December 31, 2007.

If you currently have only a business privilege (sales tax) license, you will pay a $45 annual renewal fee that is due January 1 and delinquent the last business day of January.

If you currently have only an occupational license, you will pay a $45 annual renewal fee that is due January 1 and delinquent the last business day of January.
This will replace the occupational tax that is based on the number of employees.

There are no changes to the licensing requirements and fees for liquor licenses and businesses regulated by Chapter 7 of the Tucson Code.
