

Mayor/Council Meeting, Sept. 20, 2016 Call-to-Audience

Ruth Beeker, representing the Board of Directors of Tucson Residents for Responsive Government, TRRG. I come to praise, protest and propose.

First, Praise for the progress being made in improving Code Enforcement. This has been a TRRG priority for almost 2 years. We look forward to continuing to work with you for positive change.

Second, Protest for the procedures used during the sign code revision process thus far. They have violated all 5 of TRRG's Essentials of Good Government.

The public first saw the revised document last week. It's called a draft, but written language has a permanence that oral discussion does not. It is totally unrealistic to expect that there will now be citizen Collaboration on content or resident input on desirable streetscape and signage reflecting Sensitivity to Quality of Life.

So who has had input? At last Thursday's Sign Code Committee, Jim Mazzacco named Metro Chamber, sign industry reps, staff, and a "good conversation with Mark Mayer last March." TRRG believes that the earlier the public is involved, the more relevant the public input and the greater the public trust. Transparency and Accountability took a big hit here.

We recognize that the Supreme Court Reed decision must be addressed. When extending revisions beyond that, it appears to be a contrived opportunity to cater to special interests. So much for Integrity!

So, third, the Proposal. We know that the sign code has a long contentious history—all the more reason to get the public process right when revising it. Let's just make changes now to make it Reed compliant and put a total review on the "to-do" list for the new PDSO director.

As a community, we are now making progress on better code enforcement practices—we can't do everything at once; but TRRG believes that, at a future time, we can and should do a comprehensive, inclusive review of the sign code, one which meets TRRG's Essentials of Good Government.

The Board has requested that I leave copies of this statement for you.
