207	7/31/2014	Email	Camille Kershner	Self	Mary Durham-Pflibsen, CTF member	Transit; Economic Development; Economic Impacts	"I happened across this [see attached - July 21, 2014 Sports Illustrated, My Town, My Team - BRAVES" by Thomas Lake] at work this morning, and they kindly let me borrow it - speaking of phx metrolink as another example, where is hi Corbett in relation to the sunshine mile again? (and talk about privatization vs. public service at work- why would I pay the ups store $2 to scan this, when I can use my already-paid-for-tax-dollars and stop at the library for free?!)  ~camille kershner (520) 241-8932 camillekershner@hotmail.com"	- Forward to CTF
206	7/27/2014	Email	Richard Roati	Self	Broadway	Transit	"Hello, I thought you might like to know about a recent article that was posted recently on the Arizona Public Media website that has potential impact on the Broadway design:  https://news.azpm.org/p/bus-econ-news/2014/7/23/40135-transit-use-increases-in-tucson-2005-10/  One item that stood out: "In Tucson, transit use went up 24.5 percent from 2005 to 2010, said Mayor Jonathan Rothschild...  The report also showed the number of cars registered to drive on Arizona roads decreased even as population increased.  Sincerely, Richard Roati"	- Forward to CTF

204	7/23/2014	Email	Jim Colville	Self	Broadway	Design Impacts; Support for Widening	"I am the owner of 1309 E. Broadway but will be out of town for the July 31 meeting for property owners. I would like to receive any information that is generated for or as a result of this meeting, I would also like to state that I think this project is vital to the success of the revitalization of downtown that is presently taking place. While I have been at 1309 since 1984, I feel so strongly about how important this project is that I am willing to relocate for the greater good. Tucson has a history of always acting reactively, which is never as good and always more expensive. We now have a chance to be proactive. It is imperative that we think of the good of the city as a whole and not the few special interests that have fought this project. Let's make this something that Tucsonans can be proud of and that visitors and prospective businesses will be impressed with. Let's show that Tucson is a vital and progressive city. We have a chance to do this right. Please do not let a small minority of squeaky wheels dictate the direction of this project. 202	7/18/2014	Phone	Bob Kaye	Self	Jenn Toothaker Burdick	Community Workshop Event and Input	"Mr. Kaye shared that he found the graphic used on page 36 of the draft 6/12/14 Open House Report problematic. The images misrepresents the choices made by respondents. He recommended making it more clear, by possibly stacking the bars for all the 6-lane choices into 1 bar, that there were more options selected within the 6-lane/4+2T alternatives than the 4-lane. As it looks now, the viewer sees that the 4-lane had more selections, but that is false. He also suggested that the 'no selections' could be broken out to show that 'no build' and '6+2T' options got some votes. All in all, he felt the report and data were useful. He just felt compelled to call and communicate his concerns about this graphic in particular. I shared that I would pass this on to the team and we were considering some revisions already. This would be helpful and useful to us."	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Forward to CTF</li> <li>- Forward to project team</li> </ul>
201	6/13/2014	email	Sarah Harris	Self	Mary Durham-Pflibsen, CTF member	Community Workshop Event and Input	Concerns about the Open House Survey: "...First, the survey document didn't clearly correlate to the 4- and 6-lane illustrations on the tables. Despite asking questions of Kevin Saavedra, I couldn't understand how the drawings mapped to the options on the page. I was not able to indicate my preference(s) on that page. Also, on the page that asked us to prioritize the design criteria, a comprehensive list of criteria wasn't provided--only about half were. Overall, my feeling is the compiled survey results won't be an accurate representation of respondents' preferences. Also, the crowd of people and noise made it difficult to focus on the task. As a person who hadn't been exposed to the materials prior to the meeting, I had a lot of reading and catching up to do in order to provide a considered response. Maybe future feedback sessions could be scheduled for a longer time, such all day Saturday, or the materials could be displayed for review/feedback over the course of several days, or there could be an online feedback mechanism that allows participants to review at their leisure (or a combination of these.) Thank you for your effort and so much hard work to date on this controversial project that is so important to Tucson. Sincerely,	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Forward to CTF</li> </ul>
