COLORS THAT MOVE YOU

Outdoor play is an incredible way for children to release energy, use their imaginations, role play, create, connect and develop. The colors of outdoor spaces play just as an important of a role as the components used to build them.

This color scheme was carefully selected with seamless integration into the historic Tucson landscape in mind. It offers just enough contrast and 'pops' of color to make it appealing to the user or observer, while still blending into the beautiful, subdued colors offered by the desert.

Colors like redwood and orange create warmth while cooler tones of mint and aqua create a sense of calm as well as compliment the warm colors. Olive is derived directly from the trees and grass in nature. Gray and black provide a neutral tone for other colors to contrast against and keep the playspace from feeling chaotic. Each of these colors plays an important part in harmonizing the color scheme.

The key is to balance color using the placement of each hue to maximize it's visual impact to mentally stimulate children and enhance the play experience while still blending into nature and creating an emotionally positive experience.
