INTRODUCTION

On June 10, 2008, the City of Tucson Mayor and Council adopted the Neighborhood Preservation Zone (NPZ) ordinance (Section 2.8.11 in the Land Use Code), which enabled the creation of overlay districts designed to preserve, protect, and enhance the unique character and historical resources of established city neighborhoods. The Mayor and Council initiated the Feldman's Neighborhood as the first neighborhood for the NPZ process. This process requires the development of a neighborhood design manual.

On November 24, 2009, the Mayor and Council adopted the rezoning of the Feldman's Neighborhood with an NPZ overlay. The preface "N" has been added to the assigned residential zoning designation for each properties within the Feldman's NPZ (e.g., R-1 became NR-1).

The design manual is a condition of the rezoning (C9-09-07 Feldman's Neighborhood Preservation Zone Overlay) and is a required review component of all applicable projects. Applicants must still meet all applicable City Building Code requirements.

Purpose of this Design Manual

The Feldman's Neighborhood Design Manual (Design Manual) provides a process to guide architectural and design requirements to assure development is compatible with the Feldman's Neighborhood unique character as well as with the character of an applicable Development Zone.

Feldman's Neighborhood Preservation Zone Overlay

The Feldman's NPZ Overlay, per the applicability criteria established by the NPZ enabling legislation, coincides with the residential zone boundaries as shown in the map provided below. The NPZ Overlay is subject to change in the future if properties within the study area are rezoned either to or from residential.

The Feldman's Neighborhood is a National Register Historic District (established in 1989; expanded in 2008). As of 2008, Feldman's has 488 contributing properties (i.e. properties that have historic designations) to the historic district.

How to use the manual

The Feldman's Neighborhood Design Manual is organized to assist an applicant to design a project. It is recommended that an applicant review the design manual in its entirety prior to designing a project.

Chapter 1 describes the recommended procedure for applicants to follow prior to designing and submitting their projects. Included in this chapter are requirements pertaining to applicability and establishing the Development Zone. Following the procedure provided in this chapter will likely reduce the need for project redesign.

Chapter 2 describes the review and approval procedure.

Chapters 3 & 4 detail the requirements pertaining to compatibility review and privacy mitigation referenced in Chapters 1 & 2.

Chapter 5 provides certain dimensional and spatial access flexibility in exchange for increased historic compatibility.

CHAPTER 1: PRE-SUBMITTAL GUIDELINES

1 Do the Design Manual's requirements apply to my project?

The Design Manual's (DM) requirements apply if the following criteria apply to your project:

- Property is residentially zoned RX-1, RX-2, R-1, R-2, R-3, RH, SR, or SH; and
- Project requires a building permit (to find out whether your project requires a building permit go here: www.tucsonaz.gov/dsd/Permit_Review_/Residential/residential.html); and,
- Proposed improvement is visible from the street unless the City's Design Professional determines that the improvement has minimal impact on the appearance of the streetscape.

Yes, the DM requirements apply to my project

Proceed to Steps 2 – 9

No, the DM requirements do not apply to my project

Proceed to Building permit Review

2 Establish the Development Zone

A Development Zone (DZ) is a certain designated area adjacent to the lot to be developed. Contributing historic properties within the Development Zone shall be considered when evaluating proposed development.

Use the following instructions to determine the Development Zone for your project.*

Development Zone for an Interior Lot (Illustration A). Where the project site is an interior lot, the Development Zone includes that lot, all lots on either side of that lot and fronting on the same street in the same block, and all those lots on the opposite side of that street, except such portions of the Development Zone which fall outside the boundary of the NPZ district.

Illustration A

Development Zone for a Corner Lot (Illustration B). Where the project site is a corner lot, the Development Zone includes that lot, the corner lot diagonally opposite that lot, all lots fronting on the same two (2) streets in the same block, and all lots on the opposite sides of those streets, except such portions of the Development Zone which fall outside the boundary of the NPZ district.

Illustration B

Development Zone for a Boundary Lot (Illustration C). Where the project site is located adjacent to a historic district zone boundary, the Development Zone includes that lot, all lots located within the same block, and those lots facing the same street as the subject lot within one block in either direction, except such portions of the zone which fall outside the boundary of the NPZ district.

Illustration C

= Project Site
 = Development Zone

* Additional Directions:

1. If there are no contributing properties in the Development Zone, extend the boundaries to include the nearest contributing property. See Step #3 for description of a Contributing Property.
2. Public and institutional structures within the Development Zone shall not be considered part of the Development Zone when evaluating proposed development on an adjacent property, except for public and institutional structures on or eligible for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places.

Identify the Contributing Properties

Contributing Property: a building, object, site, or structure that contributes to the historic significance and visual character of a National Register Historic District, and has sufficient integrity to convey that significance and those visual character defining features in terms of location, design, setting, material, workmanship, character, or association. Contributing properties are listed in the designated National Register Historic District or in an Eligibility Assessment document for the district.

1. Make a preliminary determination of the Contributing Properties within the project's Development Zone using the map below and the Inventory of the Contributing Properties to the Feldman's National Register Historic District located in the appendix. NOTE: Map 1.3 may be updated administratively to reflect the most current inventory of contributing properties. The City's Historic Preservation Officer has the current inventory.
2. Confirm your findings with the City's Historic Preservation Officer.

Identify the Compatibility Review Criteria

The Design Manual's Compatibility Review Criteria are based on the NPZ enabling ordinance's Compatibility Review Criteria and the Feldman's National Register Historic District application's defining characteristics.

1. Review Chapter 3: Compatibility Review Criteria. Chapter 3 includes examples of the Compatibility Review Criteria specific to the Feldman's NPZ that will assist applicants in conducting the analysis required for their projects.
2. Conduct a field survey of the project's Development Zone. Be prepared to present photographs of the Contributing Properties within the project's Development Zone focusing on the Compatibility Review Criteria.
3. Complete the Neighborhood Compatibility Worksheet with the findings. The Worksheet is available online at www.tucsonaz.gov or at the Planning & Development Services Department (201 N. Stone Ave., 2nd floor).

Privacy Mitigation

Adequate measures must be taken to prevent visual intrusion from the proposed project into existing single story residences.

1. Determine whether privacy mitigation is required of your project using the following criteria:

Your project is proposed adjacent to existing single story residences and is a(n):

- New multistory residence;
 - Addition of a story to an existing residence; or
 - Additions to existing second floor or higher stories.
2. Indicate on the Neighborhood Compatibility Worksheet whether your project requires privacy mitigation.
 3. If privacy mitigation is required, review Chapter 4: Privacy Mitigation for the required privacy mitigation objectives and recommended strategies for meeting each objective.

Pre-Application Conference with Design Professional

The Design Professional is an architect with historic preservation experience and is responsible for 1) assisting the applicant in submitting a complete application; and, 2) preparing findings on how applications comply with the Design Manual.

1. Confer with the Design Professional regarding your project. Contact the Planning and Development Services Department at (520) 791-4505 to schedule an appointment.
2. Provide to the Design Professional at least one (1) week before your appointment a map showing the boundaries of the Development Zone, a completed Neighborhood Compatibility Worksheet, photographs of the Contributing Properties in the project's Development Zone, and any other support materials.
3. At the conference, the Design Professional will make suggestions on an acceptable design to be in compliance with the Design Manual.

Design the Project

1. Design the project using the information gathered to this point, including information obtained from the Design Professional.
2. Consider the following when designing your project:
 - A. Compatibility is the visual consistency of development by mirroring prevailing dimensions, spatial relationships, and architectural and design characteristics of the neighborhood overall and the Contributing Properties within the Development Zone.
 - B. Compatible does not mean “repetition or copy of” or “identical to” existing structures within the neighborhood.
 - C. Compatibility is achieved when a development is designed in a manner that blends in with the character of structures in the Development Zone.
 - D. Projects may be developed using modern construction.
 - E. Property owners may develop using the standards permitted by the underlying zoning, but may have to make accommodations in the design of the project for purposes of achieving compatibility. For example, a project whose Development Zone is predominately single story may develop a two story structure. However, design techniques, such as setting the second floor back from the first floor, should be considered to make the scale and massing of project more compatible with the Development Zone.

F. See Chapter 2, Step #10 for additional guidance on how the Design Professional will evaluate a project for compliance.

8 Prepare Application

Prepare application to include the following*:

- Completed application form
- Neighborhood Compatibility Worksheet
- Pre-Application Conference form signed by the Design Professional
- Written report describing how the project complies with the Design Manual overall and the within the Development Zone
- Request for Incentives (if applicable) (See Chapter 5 for details)
- Site plan and elevations indicating all proposed changes and demonstrating compliance with the Design Manual
- Aerial map showing project location, Development Zone, and location of Contributing Properties
- Photographs of Contributing Properties within the project's Development Zone

* The Design Professional may allow modifications to the submittal requirements for projects less than 1,000 square feet. The Director may request additional information of a modified section.

9 Submit Application for Review

Submit application. Staff will review the application for completeness. The application shall be accepted or rejected within two (2) days.

CHAPTER 2: REVIEW AND APPROVAL PROCEDURE

NOTE: The first nine of twelve steps from Chapter 1 are continued here in Chapter 2. Chapter 1 covered the pre-submittal guidelines. Chapter 2 covers the review and approval procedure once the City accepts an application.

10 Compatibility Review

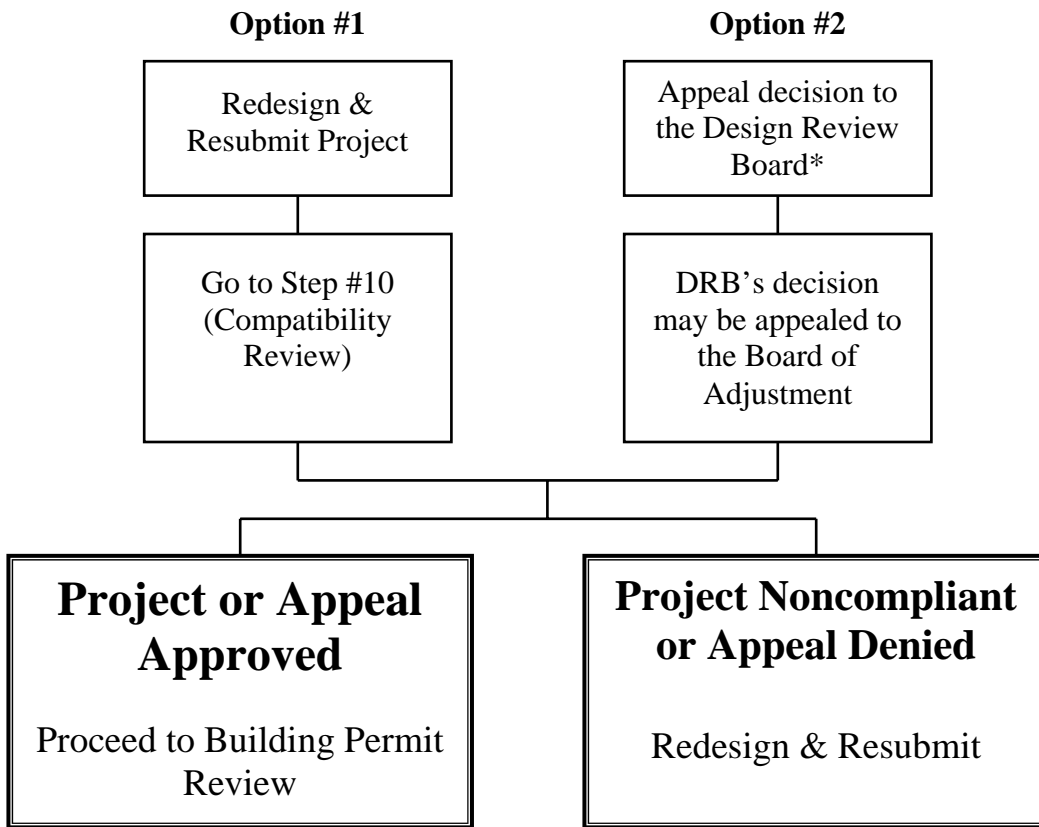

- * The Design Professional will review proposal for:
 - Applicability
 - Compatibility with the Priority and Regular Review Criteria
 - Privacy Mitigation (if applicable)
 - Nuisance impact

The Design Professional will then prepare findings and recommendation including special conditions if required.

 Director refers to the Director of the Planning and Development Services Department

11 Options If Project Determined To Be Noncompliant

* The Design Review Board shall use the same review criteria as the Design Professional when formulating its findings and recommendations.

CHAPTER 3: COMPATIBILITY REVIEW CRITERIA

3.1: Introduction

The Design Manual's Compatibility Review Criteria are based on the NPZ enabling ordinance's Compatibility Review Criteria and the Feldman's National Register Historic District's defining characteristics. The purpose of the compatibility review process using these criteria is to be consistent with the historic character of the Feldman's Neighborhood and to be consistent with the more immediate historic setting within an individual Development Zone.

3.2: How to Use This Section

- A. The applicant should review the Compatibility Review Criteria section to ensure the proposal is consistent with the Feldman's Neighborhood's historic character and that the proposal is consistent with the contributing properties in the Development Zone.
1. Priority Review Criteria. The four criteria listed in this section of the Design Manual are intended to identify the key features of the streetscape in the Feldman's Neighborhood that would ensure compliance with the purpose of the Design Manual. Proposals that are consistent with these criteria are most likely to be in compliance with the Design Manual.
 2. Regular Review Criteria. The remaining criteria listed in the Compatibility Review Criteria section demonstrate historic features of the Feldman's Neighborhood. For review of a proposal, these criteria represent a secondary set of Feldman's Neighborhood characteristics. All proposals should be reviewed for consistency with these criteria, when they are applicable, in achieving overall compliance with the Design Manual.
- B. In an evaluation of a proposal, the Design Professional will base the findings and recommendation on the particular circumstances of a proposal and its compliance with all the Priority Review Criteria or a combination of the most applicable Priority and Regular Review Criteria.

3.3: Priority Review Criteria

A. Front Yards: Front yards in Feldman's are of generally uniform depth along most streets, and most are not enclosed by walls or fences. A common feature is a low retaining wall on the development side of the sidewalk, allowing the yard and house to sit at a slightly higher elevation than the sidewalk. Most fences and walls in front of houses are recent additions and are not consistent with the historic character of the neighborhood.

Preferred: Open front yards of similar depth to others adjacent and nearby; low retaining walls at the sidewalk where conditions warrant.

Avoid: Fences and walls enclosing front yards.

B. Massing: In most buildings in Feldman's, the building mass is broken up by varying rooflines or parapet heights, and walls are offset to reduce the area of wall surfaces and to avoid a boxy appearance.

Preferred: Use varying rooflines or stepped parapet heights to reduce the apparent height of the building, and offset walls to relieve large surfaces.

Avoid: Unbroken 2-story walls, and large, continuous wall surfaces.

C. Rhythm: Typically, the streetscape rhythm in Feldman’s consists of similarly sized homes regularly spaced along the street. Side yards are generally similar in width, and the front setback is fairly uniform.

Preferred: Buildings similar in size and regularly spaced with the existing buildings nearby, and front setbacks similar to those of neighboring buildings.

Avoid: Buildings noticeably different in size from their neighbors, irregular spacing of buildings, and varying front setbacks.

D. Scale: Most buildings in Feldman’s National Register Historic District are modestly sized homes. Building facades vary from about 25 feet to 35 feet wide, and are generally one to one and a half stories tall.

Preferred: The scale of new buildings should be consistent with the existing buildings.

Avoid: Buildings much wider and taller than existing buildings.

3.4: Regular Review Criteria

A. Architectural Style: The predominant architectural styles in Feldman's are the Bungalow and Spanish Colonial Revival/Spanish Eclectic. These and other styles found in the neighborhood are listed below, along with a few of their characteristics.

Architectural styles are included in this Manual not to encourage replication of them, but rather as references for the designer of new development in Feldman's National Register Historic District. Elements, details, proportions, etc. from contributing properties in the Development Zone can be borrowed and paraphrased in order to help harmonize a new development with its surroundings.

Early Modern Styles

- Prairie Style (ca. 1918): few examples in Feldman's
 - Low-pitched, shingled, hip roof
 - Broad, overhanging eaves
 - Horizontal emphasis in windows, porches
- Craftsman or California Bungalow (ca. 1912 through the 1920s): While more elaborate, custom examples are referred to as Craftsman and the simpler examples are called California Bungalows, the two terms are used somewhat interchangeably.
 - Wide, low proportions
 - Low-pitched, shingled, roof with front-facing gable, dormers, and/or multiple ridges
 - Large, covered front porch
 - Exposed structural members, natural materials

Spanish Styles

- Spanish Colonial Revival or Spanish Eclectic (1920s through 1930s): differences between the two are subtle, and the terms are used somewhat interchangeably.
 - Flat roof with stepped or curvilinear parapet, or low-pitched, tile gable or hip roof with little overhang
 - Projecting front porch with separate roof and arched or square openings
 - Paired wood, double-hung or steel casement windows
- Mission Revival (1920s): few examples in Feldman's
 - Prominent shaped parapet walls with cap courses
 - Overhanging gable or hip roof, usually tile
 - Round arched openings
 - Exposed rafter ends
- Monterey Revival: one example in Feldman's at 1123 N. Tyndall Avenue (1929)
 - Two stories with gable roof and front-facing second story balcony

Other Eclectic Styles

- Minimal Traditional: one example in Feldman's at 816 E. Drachman Street (1937)
 - Minimal detail
 - Relatively steep gable roof with front-facing gable
- Tudor Revival: two examples in Feldman's at 627 E. Speedway (1927) and 1222 N. 4th Avenue (1948)

- Steep gable roof with multiple ridges and dormers

Modern Styles

- Ranch (1940s through 1960s)
 - Long, asymmetrical façade facing street; horizontal emphasis
 - Red brick walls; stucco on some examples
 - Medium-pitch shingle gable roof, often with a front-facing gable perpendicular to the main roof
 - Casement windows, usually a picture window, and often a corner window
 - Often an attached carport to the side of the house
- International (late 1940s through 1950s): few examples in Feldman's
 - Similar to Ranch Style, but with flat roof and overhanging eaves

Other

- Vernacular Buildings, sometimes referred to as National Folk (1902 – present)
 - Designed mostly for functionality and absent any particular style
 - Older examples are wood or adobe; more recent ones are stucco or concrete block
 - Some examples borrow details from other styles

B. Building Walls: Typical exterior building wall materials in Feldman's include stucco, brick, concrete block and natural stone. Wood siding is a rare exception, and aluminum and vinyl siding are little used and not characteristic of the neighborhood. Many stucco walls have simple decorative trim at parapets, window sills, chimneys and similar locations. Raised stucco window surrounds are not characteristic of Feldman's.

Stucco

Brick

Concrete Block

Natural Stone

Preferred: Exterior walls of stucco, brick, concrete block or natural stone.

Avoid: Aluminum and vinyl siding; wood siding if not present in the Development Zone.

C. Garages and Carports: Vehicle storage for most of the contributing properties in Feldman's is at the rear of the lot. Garages, carports or open parking areas are accessed either from an alley or from a single-lane driveway from the street. Some Ranch style houses have a carport at the side of the house, and some Bungalows have a similarly located porte-cochere that is an extension of the front porch roof. Multiple car garages at the front of the building are not characteristic of Feldman's.

Garage off of alley

Porte-cochere at side of house

Preferred: Parking at the rear of the lot, accessed by an alley where feasible, or by a narrow driveway along the property line; a carport or porte-cochere at the side of the building if this occurs nearby.

Avoid: Front facing multiple car parking at the front of the lot.

D. Landscaping: Typical front yards in Feldman's are landscaped with informal arrangements of trees, shrubbery and accent plantings that are generally drought tolerant desert vegetation. Ground cover is the exception rather than the rule.

Preferred: Yards informally planted with trees and shrubs.

Avoid: Front parking areas and barren gravel front yards.

E. Pedestrian Ways: Public sidewalks in Feldman’s are relatively long and continuous along the street frontage. The only breaks within a block are typically for an alley entrance or for single-lane driveways located along the property lines. Most private sidewalks are straight and lead from the public sidewalk through the front yard to a front porch or building entrance.

Preferred: Maintain long, unbroken stretches of public sidewalk, and provide pedestrian access ways that lead straight from the public sidewalk to a front porch or entryway.

Avoid: Public sidewalks broken up by wide driveway aprons; the absence of straight, private walks to front porches.

F. Porches: One of the predominant characteristics of contributing properties to Feldman’s Historic District is a roofed front porch. On a great majority of the contributing properties, the front porch is the face the building presents to the streetscape. They range in size from small entry porches on Spanish and Ranch style houses to broad sitting porches on bungalows.

Preferred: Front porches similar in size and placement to others nearby.

Avoid: No front porch; front porch out of character or proportion with the building or with nearby properties; 2nd floor balconies.

G. Roofs: Pitched roof types characteristic of Feldman's include gable and hip roofs, generally with a fairly shallow pitch. Most are compound roofs with multiple ridge lines, either parallel or perpendicular, and a number also have dormers. The most common roofing materials are asphalt shingles and Spanish tile. A large number of buildings in the historic district have flat roofs surrounded by parapet walls. Many of the parapets vary in height for visual relief. Large, unrelieved expanses of roof, steeply pitched roofs and flat parapet roofs with a boxy appearance are not characteristic of Feldman's, nor is modern roof tile that doesn't capture the look of Spanish tile.

Gable roof with shingles and dormer

Gable roof with Spanish tile

Hip roof with shingles, multiple ridges

Parapet with detail and varying heights

Preferred: Gable or hip roofs with shallow pitch, multiple ridgelines and asphalt shingles or Spanish tile; parapet roofs that vary in height.

Steeply pitched gable roof

Hip roof with modern tile

Step mansard roof

Flat, unrelieved parapet

Avoid: Steeply pitched roofs, modern tile, and flat, unrelieved parapets.

H. Vehicular Use Areas: Streets in the Feldman’s Historic District are oriented north-south and east-west, forming a typical city grid. Nearly every block is bisected by an alley, allowing most of the properties rear access to a backyard garage or parking area. Properties without alley access have single-lane driveways along the property lines leading to garages or parking area at the rear. Vertical curbs and public sidewalks are interrupted only by alley entrances or narrow driveways.

Preferred: Provide rear parking served by alleys or narrow driveways from the public street along property lines; maintain continuous vertical curbs free of long or frequent breaks.

Avoid: Wedge curbs and wide driveway aprons interrupting the vertical curb.

I. Windows: The most common window types in the Historic District are wood double-hung and steel casement windows that have vertical proportions, but are often grouped in pairs or threes for a wider proportion. The windows of some Ranch style houses have horizontal proportions. New development should emulate the type, proportion and placement of the windows of contributing properties in the Development Zone. Windows in Feldman's are set in from the exterior surface of the wall. Surface-mounted windows should be avoided in new development.

Wood double-hung windows

Steel casement windows

Preferred: Wood double-hung or steel casement windows, or windows similar in appearance, including the trim, to those of nearby properties. Windows should be set in from the exterior surface of the wall with an at least two inch (2") reveal.

Avoid: Surface-mounted aluminum or vinyl windows; raised stucco window surrounds; window proportion and placement different from those on nearby properties.

CHAPTER 4: PRIVACY MITIGATION

4.1: Requirement

Applicants proposing multistory residences must design projects to limit visual and noise intrusion into adjacent properties. While all intrusions cannot be prevented, applicants are required to provide a reasonable level of privacy mitigation.

4.2 Applicability

- A. Privacy mitigation is required (NPZ Ordinance, Section 2.8.11.9.C.5) when the following types of development are proposed adjacent to existing single-story residences:
- Construction of a multistory residence;
 - Addition of a story to an existing residence; or,
 - Additions to existing second floor or higher stories.
- B. Privacy Mitigation is encouraged, but not required of proposed single-story projects.
- C. Where a two-story building is proposed adjacent to existing two story residences, Privacy Mitigation regarding location and screening of balconies is encouraged, but not required.

4.3 How to Use this Section

Privacy mitigation is divided into four categories: Windows, Balconies, Screening, and Lighting.

Each category has Objectives and Strategies. The Objectives express the goals for applicable projects in a particular category that must be achieved. The Strategies provided are recommended ways of accomplishing the objective.

Applicants may propose strategies other than those provided if the objective is met. The Planning and Development Services Director will determine if the alternate strategy meets the objective.

The Design Professional may require a specific strategy or allow optional strategies when the applicant's design proposal does not comply with a reasonable level of privacy mitigation.

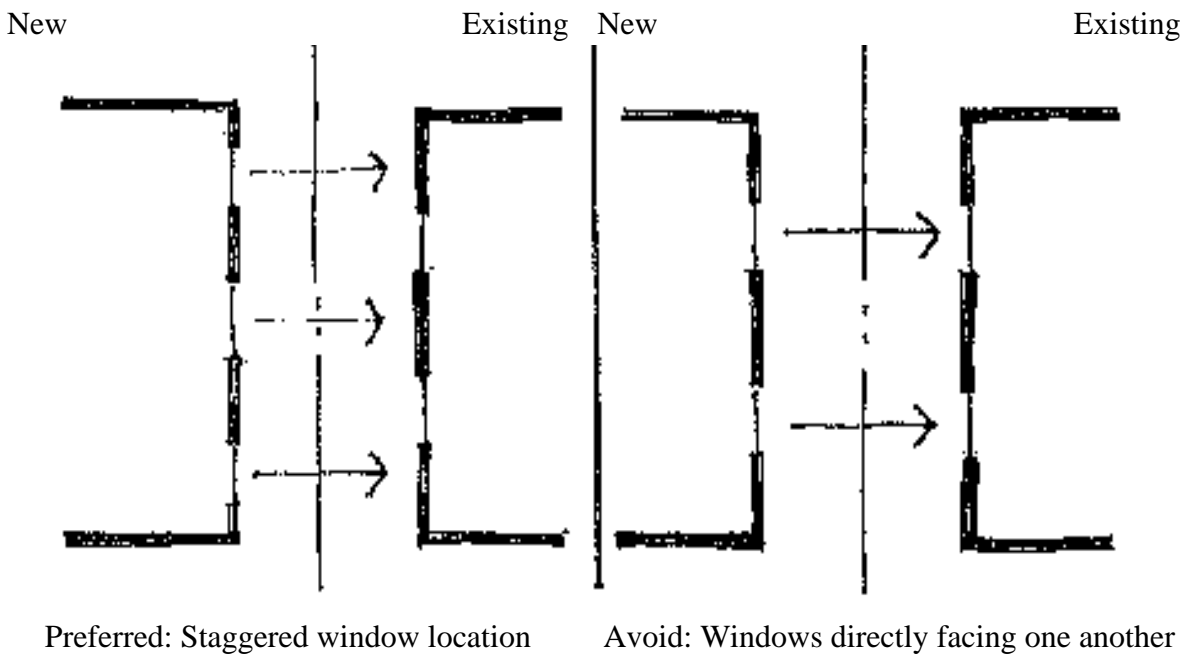

4.4 Mitigation of Privacy Intrusions from Windows

Windows can cause intrusion into the privacy of neighboring properties. This can occur in two ways: windows of neighboring properties directly facing each other, and windows of one building facing into the private yard of a neighboring property. Chances of the latter occurring are much greater and more difficult to mitigate in the case of second-story windows. Types of privacy intrusion from windows and various ways to mitigate intrusions are outlined below.

Objective #1: Objective Avoid direct views from windows of new development into windows of neighboring buildings.

Strategies

Strategy #1: Stagger window locations so that windows of the new development face a solid or blank wall of the neighboring building rather than another window.

Strategy #2: If a new window must face an existing window on a neighboring structure, one of the following techniques should be used to prevent a direct view into the neighbor's window:

- A window with the sill at least five feet above the floor,
- A window with translucent glass, or
- An opaque wall, fence or hedge between the new window and the neighbor's window.

New Existing New Existing

Preferred: High window facing a neighbor's view window

Preferred: Translucent window facing a neighbor's clear window

New Existing New Existing

Preferred: Opaque screen at property line

Avoid: Unobstructed view from window to window

Objective #2: Avoid direct views from windows in new development into private outdoor living spaces of neighboring properties.

Strategies

Strategy #1: Orient windows away from neighbors' private yards.

Strategy #2: When a new window must face a neighbor's yard a window with the sill at least five feet above the floor or a translucent window should be used. (See illustrations in Section 4.3.1.)

Strategy #3: Where an existing single story residence exists, rear-facing, second-story windows should be recessed into the building to avoid side views into neighbors' private yards.

Preferred: 2nd story window recessed into building

Avoid: 2nd story window at face of building with side view into a neighbor's yard

Strategy #4: Set the second story back from the first story to provide greater distance from second-story windows into neighbors' private yards.

Preferred: 2nd story set back from 1st story

Avoid: 2nd story even with 1st story

4.5: Mitigation of Privacy Intrusions from Balconies

Poorly designed or improperly placed balconies can intrude into the privacy of neighboring properties causing noise and visual intrusions. This is particularly true in the Feldman's Historic District, as it is comprised mainly of single-story houses, which provide little protection from views from second-story balconies. Types of privacy intrusion from balconies and various ways to mitigate these intrusions are outlined below.

Objective #1: To protect the visual privacy of neighbors in existing single story residences, avoid balconies in new development where a neighbor's private outdoor living space can be seen.

Strategies

Strategy #1: Prohibit balconies at the side or corner of a building to prevent views into a neighbor's private yard.

Strategy #2: A rear-facing balcony should be recessed into the house or a six-foot high opaque screen should be provided at the side of the balcony to prevent views into the neighbor's private yard.

New Existing New Existing
Rear yards

Preferred: Balcony recessed into the house to prevent view into neighbor's yard

Preferred: Balcony with 6' high opaque screen to prevent view into neighbor's yard

New Existing New Existing
Rear yards

Avoid: Open balcony with view into neighbor's yard

Strategy #3: Where a rear-facing balcony overlooks a neighbor's rear yard and is less than 25 feet from the neighbor's rear property line, a six-foot high opaque screen should be provided on the balcony to prevent views into the rear neighbor's private yard.

Preferred: Balcony with 6' high screen preventing view into neighbor's rear yard

Avoid: Open balcony with view into neighbor's rear yard

Objective #2: Balconies that are large enough in floor area can serve as noise-producing social gathering areas, and a balcony that faces another balcony across the street or across a property line may encourage balcony-to-balcony conversation, again producing noise. Avoid situations such as these that can result in noise levels unacceptable to residential neighbors.

Strategy #1: Limit the depth of exterior balconies to five feet, measured from the face of the building to the balcony railing.

Preferred: Maximum 5' deep balcony

Avoid: Room-sized balcony

Strategy #2: Balconies facing the street should be predominantly recessed into the building's façade and small in scale so as not to accommodate more than three persons.

Strategy #3: Avoid balconies on the front of the building, particularly when across the street from another balcony.

Strategy #4: Where a balcony will face another balcony provide a six foot high opaque screen.

New

Existing New

Existing

Preferred: Balcony with 6' high opaque screen facing another balcony

Avoid: Balcony facing another balcony with no visual screen between them

4.6: Screening of Front, Side and Rear Yards

Screening of yards with walls, fences and/or vegetation can be an effective method for property owners to avoid intrusions into their privacy. In order to preserve the historic character of the Feldman's Neighborhood, however, such screening should be historically appropriate.

Objective #1: Follow the guidelines below when providing privacy screening.

Strategy #1: Front yards in the Feldman's Historic District have historically been left open to the street and are not considered private outdoor living spaces. NOTE: For properties to maintain their status as contributing properties to the historic district, screening in front yard must not exceed forty-eight inches (48") in height.

Strategy #2: Side yards: Where screening is desired along property lines between buildings, a hedge or vegetative screen of low water use plants is the preferred method. Walls and fences are also allowed. See Chapter 4.4 regarding opaque screening along property lines or in front of windows. In order to protect access to light and air, the Tucson Land Use Code limits the height of screening outside building setback lines to six feet above design grade.

Strategy #3: Rear yards may be screened by walls, fences or vegetation, with the latter being preferred. Screening is limited in height as described above.

4.7: Exterior Lighting

Another kind of intrusion into the privacy of residential properties is light shining into windows and/or yards from a neighbor's exterior light fixtures. The Tucson Lighting Code specifies that all exterior light fixtures must be of the "full cutoff" type. This type of fixture directs light downward and away from adjacent properties.

Objective #1: Follow the guidelines below when providing exterior lighting.

Strategy #1: Use only full cutoff type light fixtures for exterior lighting.

CHAPTER 5: INCENTIVES

The following incentives are conditionally permitted within the Feldman's NPZ for certain dimensional, spatial, and access standards currently applicable in the underlying zones. In addition to complying with the incentive-specific conditions, applicants are required to execute a Proposition 207 waiver as described below.

Proposition 207 Waiver Required

In exchange for processing applications requesting an incentive(s) permitted by the Feldman's Neighborhood Preservation Zone, landowners must execute a waiver of any right or any potential claim(s) under Proposition 207 [The Private Property Rights Protection Act (A.R.S. §12-1134 et. seq.)] arising from his/her development of the property as permitted by A.R.S. §12-1134 et. seq. The waiver must be executed prior to approval of the application and shall be in a form approved by the City Attorney. The waiver applies only to the action requested and does not diminish any other landowner rights that may exist prior to the request.

5.1: Alley access

Incentive:

1. Alleys historically providing access to rear parking areas for residential development may continue to be used for access
2. Access to residential properties from alleys less than 16' wide is permitted.
3. Alleys may be used for access and maneuvering

Condition: Surfacing may be required when it is determined that dust pollution will increase or be created by the proposed project. The Design Professional in consultation with the City's Department of Transportation will make a recommendation on the extent to which surfacing should be required. They will take into consideration the type and intensity of the project and the project's proximity to the nearest roadway. At a minimum, surfacing will be required between the project's lot lines.

5.2: Modification of Lot Coverage Requirement

Incentive: Applicants may request one (1) of the following:

- To exclude driveways from the lot coverage calculation; or,
- To increase by up to ten percent (10%) the lot coverage permitted by the underlying zoning.

Condition: See below

5.3: Modification of Side Perimeter Yard Setback Requirements

Incentive: Applicants may request a reduced side perimeter yard setback to the extent permitted by the City's Building Code.

Condition: See below

5.4: Modification to Side Perimeter Yard Setback Requirement (as a Function of Building Height)

Incentive: Applicants may request a modification to the side perimeter yard setbacks without requiring the setback to be a proportion of building height.

Condition: See below

Conditions for Incentives 5.2 – 5.4

A modification shall:

- Attempt to retain the contributing status of a building whenever practicable
- Not reduce compatibility with the Priority Review Criteria
- Comply with the Privacy Mitigation standards
- Not create a nuisance, such as excessive dust, noise, glare, vibration, or similar problem, for adjacent residents and property owners.

5.5: Modification of Parking Requirements

Incentives:

1. On-street parking located between the project's lot lines along the same side of the street may count toward meeting a project's parking requirements if it does not obstruct garbage pickup activity.
2. Access and maneuvering for an on-site parking area may occur in the right-of-way if the Design Professional in consultation with the City's Department of Transportation determines it can safely occur.

5.6: Water Catchment Systems

Incentive: Side perimeter yard setback and separation requirements between dwelling units and accessory structures may be modified to accommodate water catchment systems.

Condition: The exterior surface of the catchment container shall be designed to not create a nuisance for the adjacent property owner, including having a non-glare treatment.

5.7: Rezoning Adjacent to Arterial & Collector Streets

It is recognized that private covenants by property owners to restrict future development and preserve historic character are a very important means to maintain the historic character of Feldman's NPZ. It is further recognized that to maintain a balance in the future development of the area, new development of greater density or intensity should be along the arterial and collector streets rather than within the interior of the neighborhood in conformance with policies of the University Area Plan. Thus, the policies of this overlay zone and of the University Area Plan may be satisfied by the transfer of development rights from the interior to the surrounding arterial and collector streets properties or the recording of a covenant or similar instrument aimed at preserving contributing properties within the interior of the Feldman's Neighborhood.

Therefore, where a property owner wishes to rezone property within the Feldman's Neighborhood Preservation Zone that is immediately adjacent to one of the arterial/collector streets of Speedway Boulevard, Euclid Avenue, and Park Avenue the property owner may establish compliance with the University Area Plan by submitting to the Planning and Development Services Department certain documentation as follows.

The documentation must show that the owner has, through binding private covenants, transferred development rights or similar instruments, permanently restricted the potential for development of a property or properties within the interior of the Feldman's NPZ and ensured the retention of a maintained contributing property status in the National Register Historic District.

Conditions:

1. Where there is a recording of transfer of development rights, it shall secure a reduction of development rights affecting interior properties that approximates the increase in development rights that would be approved for the rezoning property adjacent to an arterial or collector street.

Where there is a recording or a covenant or similar instrument, the recording must preserve a contributing property of approximately the same status as the contributing property that is lost on the arterial or collector street.

2. The covenant, transfer of development rights or other instrument restricting the development of the interior property shall be in a form and quantity that is acceptable to the City.
3. The interior property and the rezoning property are subject to the design provisions of this manual except to the extent as may be approved by the Mayor and Council in an approved rezoning.

CHAPTER 6: ADDITIONAL COMPATIBILITY REVIEW GUIDELINES

6.1: Accessible Ramps

The addition of a wheelchair accessible ramp to an existing residence typically does not affect a structure's contributing property status or require a building permit, and therefore, is not required to comply with the design manual.

However, when a building permit is required for a wheelchair accessible ramp, the Design Professional will work with applicants on the design of the ramp to maintain a structure's contributing property status. Examples of when a building permit is required for construction of an access ramp include:

- When a ramp is required by the Inclusive Home Ordinance for new residential construction or for a commercial use permitted in a residential district, such as an Adult Care Facility;
- When a ramp exceeds 30" in height; or,
- When a ramp extends into the building setback area.

Applicants should consult with the City's Historic Preservation Officer and the Planning and Development Services Department to determine whether the proposed ramp will affect the structure's contributing property status or require a permit.

6.2: Solar Energy Equipment and Panels

The City will balance solar energy needs with historic compatibility. Solar energy equipment and panels are exempt from the Compatibility Review and Privacy Mitigation requirements of this Design Manual when they are flush with the surface of the roof, confined within the perimeter of the roof area, and in the case of parapet roofs, screened from the street by the parapet walls.
