“Horses on Houghton”

Slenning, Olmstead & Donovan
Constructed from parallel 3/16” thick stainless steel plates with spaces in between set 1” apart from some angles it almost disappears

A mare and foal will stand together in the center of the 20’ wide median just south of the 22\textsuperscript{nd} St. & Houghton Intersection.
The steel plates are cut contoured to the forms of each horse’s anatomy creating a topographic effect.
The sculpture will be illuminated from below at night with low level amber-colored light, transforming it from silver to gold.
Wall relief design: “Grazing Horses”

On the west side of Houghton north of 22\textsuperscript{nd} Street a retaining wall will display a series of horses grazing as a complement to the median sculpture.
