“Homeowners’ Guide To Using Water Wisely” Promoted As Part Of Summer Water Use Awareness

Residents can request a copy of Tucson Water’s popular “Homeowners Guide To Using Water Wisely” by calling (520) 791-4331 or by sending an e-mail to waterleaks@tucsonaz.gov.

The publication is full of tips, examples and photos to help customers save water indoors and outdoors. There is also a section on how to understand the components of utility services statements and how to read one’s water meter.

“We are about ready to turn the corner into summer, which traditionally reflects the highest monthly demands of the year,” said Fernando Molina, Public Information Officer. “Every household leak that is fixed, every irrigation method that is improved, every gallon that is reused: each contributes to better overall management of our finite resources.”

Tucson Water’s web site at www.tucsonaz.gov/water is also a resource for information on conservation, water quality, system operations and more.
